

PROFILES

We offer variety of brass profiles available from stock and done under a specific order. The most common profiles are those used for underfloor heating distributors, locks and production of reinforcing joints. There are typical cross-sections of brass profiles offered, which are indicated below.

